

MAUNSELL TOWERS

Sunday 14th July 2024. £70.00

The Maunsell naval forts were built in the Thames estuary and operated by the Royal Navy, to deter and report German air raids following the Thames as a landmark, and prevent attempts to lay mines by aircraft in this important shipping channel. Named after their designer Guy Maunsell. The forts were decommissioned in the late 1950s and later used for other activities including pirate radio broadcasting. The towers lie within the Thames Estuary, 9 miles from Southend and 6 miles from Whitstable.
